Headteacher at Brentford School for Girls and Executive Headteacher at Worple School

The DfE Governance Handbook states:-

“People that govern schools and trusts hold an important public office and their identity should be known to their school(s) and wider communities. As expected under statutory guidance for maintained schools and required by the Academies Financial Handbook and funding agreement for academy trusts, boards must publish details on their website about each person.”

(Governance Handbook October 2020: 4.8 Publishing information about individuals, p.51)

Ms Leenders declares that, as the Executive Headteacher at Worple School and the Headteacher at Brentford School for Girls, she has a position with power to control activities at Worple School and Brentford School for Girls, but will only use this power for the enhancement of both schools and the education of students enrolled and studying at both schools.
